

CHAPTER 5

HOW TO IMPRESS ANYONE

*“Never try to impress a woman,
Because if you do she’ll expect you to Keep up the standard for the rest of your life”*

-W.C. FIELDS

As soon as students admitted school, college or any institute it was the desire of every student to impress faculty and friends by his works and wants to become a point of attraction in a classroom this desire initiate from school to college life and continue even during higher studies. And ultimately it becomes the attitude of a person to impress others.

But here everyone wants to know how all desire can be achieved. What strategy should follow?

First of all, we talk about teachers, professors, and other faculty.

It is a basic need to understand things, what it wants from you. You have to concentrate on that particular aspect that, the reaction should depend on the situation. Understand the nature of the problem and be serious, stubborn to discipline. Actually, the thing is very simple, every teacher wants that when he or she deliberating the lecture each and every student must concentrate at that point in time. There should be a pin drop silence. When they are teaching you should not engage in gossip. Because the teacher hates from such students.

If you want to correct the teacher when they did any mistakes during lecture then be polite instead of showing dominance and present yourself logically at that time. Sometimes at some point teachers are wrong it does not mean they do not know anything about it, it might be due to the absence of mind as a human error. Ensure that more politely you ask a query more willingly teacher will answer with good behavior with you.

Some people have a misconception about a favorite student. One who works for a teacher is not a favorite but one who honesty study and do their work on time and perfectly is favorite one.

Sometimes the teacher is frank with you and also have a funny mood during teaching you should also behave similarly with them and enjoy the study .whenever faculty share with you to bring amusement during a lecture at that time you should not be too excited but be in limits. Always remain within your jurisdiction and follow discipline “Always enjoy with the teacher during the classroom but never do indiscipline because this unique behavior shows your manners and activates and every faculty aspect this thing from the student but very few students follow these things.

THE MELANGE OF SUCCESS

Some students have the tendency of asking more and more doubts. The teacher also got frustrated with illogical questions. Your question must have logic and sense. Asking a cross-question is a good habit but it should be genuine. It is better to ask questions during lecture time because at that time it is better to understand actually at that time the whole concept is present in mind. One should also go for personal doubts for the teacher "one to one" which saves your time as well as teaching time. By this one more benefit you will be in personal contact with the teacher. Sometimes the teacher also gives you some extra knowledge not only related to study but also other aspects of life and also share their experience of life which helps you to live a domestic life. And help you at further stages of life you can also solve your personal problems of life because the path through which you are going he or she had already passed through it.

It is the duty of each and every student to sit with open eyes and ears when the teacher is teaching because once you involved within the topic during the classroom then it is easier for you to understand it in the best way. The best relation between the teacher and students is friendship. We should treat each other as good friends within limits. Because only this relationship between two people can remove the hesitation, shyness and able to ask a query with an open mind. Always respect teachers and always ready for getting knowledge from the teacher. Sometimes teachers have a lot of workloads they need help but they never ask you for doing it. But being a good student, it is your duty to help them understand their need and help them. By following these things you will be having such qualities that make you unique.

Now let us talk about behavior with friends first thing is to speak politely to everyone as much as possible with a smile on the face so that one who is talking with you also be in funny mood always told such topics which make some alternate thoughts for talking remain away from controversy. Never used to criticize anyone unnecessarily. Someone then says everything. But if you want to correct him then correct meeting with him one to one, never try to criticize and insult him publicly. This different behavior which will be in the welfare of others will also help you in the future.

If you want to impress someone try to do such deeds which in the welfare of others instead of looking at your own profit. Such that you should work with helping nature instead of playing the political game. If you show cleverness you will be easily judged by others. What deeds, work, and behavior you make the first time or in the first meeting will create great impress for a long time. Your character is judged by others. Never try to show money for others, if really you are a good person tries to help them economically. Because person wisdom is judged by talent, attitude, behavior. The poor person can be a good gentleman rather than rich. Never be the last person during expenditure within your friend circle.

Next think matter speaking, selection of words. Speak the hybrid language, English and Hindi with good pronunciation do not show shyness while speaking, maintain variable pitch and medium loudness while talking. It shows your confidence level.

Last but not least important thing is dressing sense, till you have not spoken up to that time your dressing sense well decide you're personally so good looking and charming accordingly to today's world and be advanced.

If you see any controversy or fighting is going on there is no need to engage in it and start giving your views but smart work is to convince both the parties and change the topic to move further this attitude brings a leadership quality.

THE MELANGE OF SUCCESS

Sometimes students who think differently and deeply about the methods and concepts even. Some the students try to solve the same problem with different ways or methods which might be easier, less time consuming as compared to the other method, which is the need for today's world. During such incident it is duty of student to bring that perfect idea or method openly in front of all and share with teacher as well as other students and never keep it within yourself otherwise other will be derived by your innovative idea and the way of introducing the idea should not be full of arrogance but bring politeness within yourself. Never try to create controversy with faculty because its consequences will give you losses nothing else not only dislike you but also you will face academic losses and somewhere deprived of knowledge. The teacher will not teach you by heart just they well complete their duty for which institute is paying for them. But to get more try to win the heart of teachers and friends. When you are talking with either faculty or friends your "presence of mind" is just because sometimes such controversy created instantly in which you don't know whether your comment affects positively or negatively. So always calm and cool minded and it helps you to judge the situation and provide a platform to think better and independently. If you talk about the history those who created history somewhere they were full of calmness and coolness. Smart work makes you smarter.
